1960 – An Extraordinary Vintage

Some fifty-five years ago, Princeton University decanted upon our nation its 1960 vintage – a class that, as it aged and matured, would produce educators and entrepreneurs, jurists and journalists, doctors and diplomats, architects and agents of change doing good things among a broad range of lives of accomplishment.

Two observations:

- A fine wine offers a bouquet, developed in the crucible of the cask, affecting not only the one who holds the glass, but those around him as well. Embedded in Princeton vintage 1960 is a vibrant strain of engagement, comprising people of informed good will who participate in myriad ways to contribute to their local communities, our nation and the world.
- A fine wine has body, derived from the vine and the terroir of the land. Our forebears of The Old Guard have tended the Princeton vineyard for generations so that we might, in our turn, become a robust and memorable vintage.

It is time to savor this great vintage of 1960 as its members assume more responsibility as stewards of the vineyard. Your gift to Princeton through Annual Giving serves to ensure, vintage by vintage, successive classes of alumni committed to excellence and achievement. It keeps faith with those who made possible both our education and our contributions to the world about us and fulfills our pledge to those vintages of the future.

Vintage '60 has now raised about one-half of our 55th reunion campaign dollar goal of $1,250,000. Participation is well over half way toward our goal of 75%. Our momentum is gathering for an extraordinary conclusion over the next three months. All of us together can achieve our goals. Raise your glasses to Princeton and to an extraordinary vintage – 1960! Thanks!
